

Europe through students' eyes

Intercultural exchange not only builds strong relationships among students in Europe but it also provides them with a common platform to express their ideas. Although from the outside Europe may seem quite diverse, it shares many common values and ideals.

Through this UNICA conference we would be delighted to communicate our visions and present how Europe looks through the eyes of London's students.

To secure the future of Europe it is our responsibility to further develop and maintain the strong network of European universities and students. As representatives of King's College London we are very excited to meet you all and engage in lively and constructive debates!
